

How to Log In to Your Website

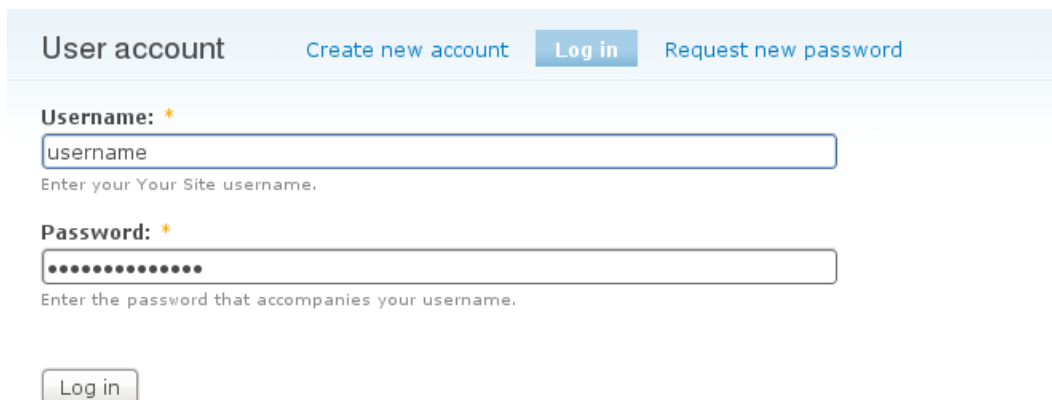

Open a web browser such as Firefox, Safari, or Internet Explorer. In the address bar, type <http://yoursite.com/user>, as pictured below. Replace “yoursite” with the actual name of your website.

Tip: It isn't necessary to type www for most websites. You can leave it off and save some typing.

You should see a page similar to the one below. Type your user name and password into the box provided. Then press the Submit button.

 A screenshot of a user account login page. At the top, there are links for "User account", "Create new account", "Log in", and "Request new password". Below these links are two input fields: "Username: *" with a text box containing "username" and a hint "Enter your Your Site username.", and "Password: *" with a text box containing ten dots and a hint "Enter the password that accompanies your username.". At the bottom, there is a "Log in" button.
